

CURA DAY HOSPITALS GROUP'S SWITCH TO FOXIT PDF EDITOR HAS HEALING EFFECT ON THEIR BUDGET

For Janet Schriel, Executive Programs Manager at the Cura Day Hospitals Group, the problem was obvious: on the one hand, employees had grown used to using Adobe Acrobat for all their PDF needs, and the company didn't want to take that away; on the other hand, the costs associated with using Acrobat simply became too great.

"Initially, we weren't thrilled about changing," says Ms. Schriel. "However, we looked at the licensing structure with Adobe and realized it was just too costly; certainly out of our reach."

When it became obvious that a change needed to be made, Ms. Schriel said that her team identified two factors that were most important to them—finding comparable PDF software with similar features and functionality. And finding a product at a price that was reasonable for Cura Day Hospitals Group.

Foxit PDF Editor offers a solution for much-needed functionality and affordability

Cura Day Hospitals Group considered many options when it came to finding a new PDF software provider, however, their search didn't last long.

"We didn't have to go too far down that path, because the Foxit PDF Editor price was right, and the Foxit team responded to our queries quickly and professionally," says Ms. Schriel. "It couldn't have worked out better. We got the functionality we were searching for."

According to Ms. Schriel, everyone at Cura Day Hospitals Group is happy to have the same functionality they had grown accustomed to. From form-creation to simply entering information into forms, everything is straightforward and intuitive.

"After functionality," says Ms. Schriel, "it came down to pricing. And Foxit pricing was very competitive for us."

"We looked at many options but are glad we went with Foxit. Everything was absolutely perfect, the entire process. We highly recommend Foxit PDF Editor."

Looking for the best PDF software at the right price

Cura Day Hospitals Group was established in 2008 and has grown to become Australia's leading provider of day hospital facilities. They continually seek opportunities to expand the range of specialist services available for patients. At the same time, they take pride in providing a quality workplace for their surgeons, nurses, and support staff, which is why when they decided to seek an Adobe Acrobat alternative.

One of the main concerns was finding a solution that their employees wouldn't have to spend time figuring out how to use. The question was simple: Which PDF software does everything you need in an intuitive and straightforward way—and at a price that's right?

The answer was equally simple: Foxit PDF Editor.

Foxit PDF Editor keeps productivity high for Cura Day Hospitals Group

Cura Day Hospitals Group had a small but knowledgeable team put Foxit PDF Editor through its paces, as Ms. Schriel says. And what did they find? "It was simple to use, easily navigable, and intuitive," says Ms. Schriel. "And best of all, the learning curve was practically nonexistent."

According to Ms. Schriel, the implementation process was simple and didn't include any unwanted surprises. And since Cura Day Hospitals Group had been given the opportunity of a trial period, Ms. Schriel says she spent that entire first month seeing all that Foxit PDF Editor had to offer.

"I was very satisfied then with what Foxit PDF Editor could do," says Ms. Schriel, "and I still am today. We looked at many options but are glad we went with Foxit. Everything was absolutely perfect, the entire process. We highly recommend Foxit PDF Editor."
